Opportunities

- Participation: this fund is an efficient way to participate in the development of the gold price.
- Cost-effective management: as a passively managed fund, there is no need for a costly analysis to emulate the international gold markets.
- Currency hedge can be selected: choose between a share class with or without hedging the possible exchange rate risks vis-à-vis the Swiss franc.
- Transparency: the ETF invests in traceable gold bars. The origin of the gold in these bars is known and can be clearly identified thanks to a segregated production process at the refinery.
- Gold bars available: as the fund physically deposits its gold investments, you can exchange your fund units at equivalent value for 1-kilogram gold bars as desired.
- Investor protection: the fund is subject to the Federal Act on Collective Investment Schemes and the invested capital is regarded as a special asset; this protects you as an investor.

Risks

- Fluctuations in value: the value of the fund depends directly on the price of gold. This can change in the short term and is susceptible to strong influences, for example when governments change relevant laws or fiscal framework conditions or intervene in the gold market.
- Physical deposits: the amount of physical gold per fund unit will decrease over time, as gold does not generate returns that can be used to cover remuneration or incidental expenses.
- Unit value: the fund unit value may fall below the purchase price at which you purchased your unit.
